A: I have been using Stellar Phoenix for a while now, and I found it to be very reliable. I have tried other tools and they can be very unreliable and fail. Steve Israel is chair of the House Democratic Steering and Policy Committee.) WASHINGTON – House Democratic Whip Steve Israel (D-N.Y.) today issued the following statement in response to the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) Court's decision to release a limited number of opinions from the Foreign Intelligence Surveillance Act (FISA) Court on NSA's surveillance of American citizens: "The opinions released by the FISA Court make clear the court understood the incredible importance of the decision to grant or deny the NSA its access to massive amounts of information about Americans. "The court's determination that the government's minimization procedures were reasonable and adequate to protect the privacy of non-U.S. persons is welcome. "However, we must remember that the court's opinion did not come without a significant cost. It removed the privacy of millions of Americans from the eyes of the government. The court's willingness to disclose these opinions at this time should be seen as a sign of transparency and an indication of the court's commitment to continue to serve as an independent check on the NSA, as it is currently doing. We need to see these opinions published without redactions, so the American people can learn the full truth about how these programs were conducted." The House passed the American Customer Sovereignty Act (HR 624) by a 417 to 1 vote. You are here SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — The California Supreme Court is rejecting the first challenge to the federal government's key role in drawing congressional districts. California's high court on Friday rejected a bid by a state Republican party to throw out lawsuits by two legislative Democrats who say the current system unfairly endangers their political and financial viability. The court says federal courts have no legal authority to intervene in what is a political matter. High-performance organic polymer transistor with molecularly thin nanoelectrode.
