The rotor has a field winding, which is surrounded by a conductive shield. A housing of the electric motor is made of plastic. The conductive shield is provided with a cylindrical surface, which adjoins the inner surface of the housing. The shield is placed on the inner surface of the housing with its cylindrical surface against the inner surface of the housing. This arrangement is also referred to as "shrink fit". DE 10 2007 041 085 A1 describes an electric motor, in which the housing has a flat end surface. The end surface of the housing is also referred to as a "flange". The housing is made of plastic. The end surface of the housing is placed against the inner surface of the housing with its flat end surface against the inner surface of the housing. This arrangement is also referred to as "shrink fit". Sri Lanka's new president Mahinda Rajapaksa, pictured in January 2013, has dismissed as "utter rubbish" allegations that the military was involved in atrocities during the country's civil war. Sri Lanka's new president Mahinda Rajapaksa has dismissed as "utter rubbish" allegations that the military was involved in atrocities during the country's civil war. Rajapaksa, who took office on Tuesday, said he would investigate claims made by Sri Lankan investigators, who claim that the military had the support of rogue officers in the final months of the 25-year civil war. Sri Lanka's war ended in May 2009, when the Tamil Tigers, who fought for a separate homeland for ethnic minorities, were defeated. Rajapaksa's predecessor, Mahinda de Silva, has been charged with war crimes and crimes against humanity for allegedly ordering the killing of civilians in the final months of the war. But Rajapaksa, in an interview with Al Jazeera's Prasanna Ramanayake, said he would not order an investigation into the alleged atrocities. "I'm not going to order an inquiry. These are absolutely utter rubbish," he said. "What is this, we are going to investigate ourselves?" he said f3e1b3768c
