Our directors are in charge of a global secret weapon for world peace: a tiny, powerful microscopic organism that could have been the world's savior. But the only thing we know for sure is that it could also spell doom for mankind. Armed with the most advanced technology, the team races to recover the organism before a vicious enemy can destroy it and use it against us. Science meets adventure in this spectacular tale of one of the greatest biological discoveries of our time. In the early 1950s, a small, obscure journal burst upon the scientific scene with a stunning announcement: an organism that could have saved the planet.
